Dir Sir or Madam:

I have a simple point to make regarding Microsoft's business practices. Microsoft is comprised of three distinct entities: Programming languages, applications and operating systems. It is extremely clear that Microsoft has made business decisions that affected the internal structure of their software to the detriment of consumers and competition that they would not have made, were each of these entities separate. If you need further explanation or documentation, please feel free to respond to this e-mail.

Thank you for your time.
